Scotch and Rams

By DON HOUSEWORTH

MY SEAFARING great Uncle Bill has been everywhere. If that is not strictly correct then I will amend the statement to say that he will tell you he has been everywhere. Pago-Pago, Hong Kong, Buenos Aires, Cape Town, Singapore, Vladivostok, all are conversation subject for Great Uncle Bill. Falkland Islands? Why, Great Uncle Bill made the Falkland group regularly.

Now the Falklands were just another bunch of dots on the map to me until I saw illustrations the other day of a new issue of stamps from the most southerly of the British crown possessions. Then I hunted up Uncle Bill over in the west side of town and treed him in the attic. He was rummaging through one of the old worm-eaten chests that Aunt Margaret permits him to keep under the roof.

"Uncle Bill," I said, "I met an old sailor over on Third street this morning and he claimed to know you. Said you had been telling tall yarns around this town for thirty years and that you never sailed anything bigger than a cat boat. He said you backed out on a trip to the Falklands once."

"The swab," exclaimed Uncle Bill. "Like as not it was old Tom Hennesy from Pillar's Point. If I made one trip to the Falklands I made a dozen." He closed the lid of the chest with a crash and sat down on it. He rubbed that rheumatic right leg as he always does when thinking.

"It's something about stamps again, isn't it?" Uncle Bill has been pumped for stamp backgrounds so often that he regards himself as something of a speaking edition of the Scott catalogue. I showed him the clipping illustrating the stamps.

"I've seen 'em, lad. Aye, I've seen too many of 'em." His stubby finger almost covered the 1p stamp showing an iceberg. "Down in them latitudes they're no uncommon sight and the very devil himself to cause trouble to the sailor when the eternal rain and winds are enough to occupy his attention. There's scarcely a day it don't rain or mist or spit in your face and the wind blows like a hurricane from the west or the southwest or the south, depending on whims, so to say. I recall a night, as black as this attic at midnight. We were running ahead of a stinging blow out of the west on the way up from the Horn, intending to touch the Falklands and take on a cargo of wool. Suddenly above the blow we heard a crack that froze the blood of the men on watch. Off on the port side an iceberg had split and a piece as big as a Cunard liner had slopped off into the water. We were caught amidships by a wave fifty feet high that keeled our ship over on its side and swept away three able bodied seamen and the deck house. We limped into Stanley—that's the seat of government in the Falklands—in a sorry shape."

"Just where are these islands, Uncle Bill?"

"The sea is a great educator. The ignorance of you stay-at-homes! Where but in the South Atlantic could the Falklands be? A stone's throw off the coast of Tierra Del Fuego and the Argentine."

"You mean a nautical stone's throw or a land stone's throw?"

"To be explicit it might be 250 to 300 miles off the nearest mainland if you went like a fish but a considerable distance by the established routes. We went there in the wool trade, a business governed by the Falkland Island Company. Aye, here's a picture of a Romney ram on this stamp. A fine animal suited to the Scottish temperament and it is well for both seeing as how Scotch and rams must live together on a couple of points of land hardly bigger than a pin head on the charts."

"The day of the whalers in those waters has long since passed," continued Uncle Bill, as his attention passed to the 1½p stamp. "Even in my day the seals and whales were fast disappearing around the Falklands and as for a king penguin, why lad, they must have made a mistake. Do they expect people to believe the king penguin is their national bird, so to speak? There are more king penguins in the New York zoo than you'll see in the Falklands in a year. But there are plenty of the ordinary breeds in the rookeries there. They breed

The Virgin Islands Stamp

Herewith is the coming new postage stamp for the Virgin Islands. The design shows the City of Charlotte Amalie, capital of the Virgin Islands, with the harbor and sugar loaf mountains in the distance.

It must be remembered that the Virgin Islands were formerly the Danish West Indies, and were purchased from Denmark in 1917.

COLUMBUS POSTAGE STAMP CO.

1492 N. High St. Columbus, Ohio

in the islands and migrate to South America every year. And there are gulls, and mollymauks and Cape pigeons and other kinds of sea birds in quantity."

"What does the place look like, Uncle Bill?"

"Well, to some the islands might look promising, but to others the one look is enough. When the drizzle sets in—and the wet weather lasts 250 days out of the year—and the skies are black the sight of the islands is poor enough. A kind of brownish color they have with only a little brightness in the town of Stanley where the inhabitants cultivate their flowers with great skill. The houses are mostly white with colored roofs and the fine government house calls to mind an old mansion in the Orkneys. 'Tis a pleasant enough place after one gets there, but the going is rough."

"You mean the wind and the icebergs and the cold?"

"'Tis the rocks I mean. The sea abounds in ship wreckers and a seasoned mariner is needed to steer clear in bad weather. The seaman's friend is the kelp that gathers over the submerged rocks and warns of the danger. But there is one big rock, they call it Uranie, that the kelp keeps clear of and many's the ship that has torn her hull out on it."

"The map is a good one," continued Uncle Bill, "but is apt to be misleading. The uninitiated might be led to believe that the Falklands are as big as the British Isles. They should have made a picture of the South Atlantic and then put in their islands. A sort of truth perspective as it were."

Great Uncle Bill. He may never have been to the Falklands but forty years before the mast filled his head with reliable information about every corner of the world. What a postage stamp collector he might have been!

New Hawaiian Stamp

The new 3c Hawaiian appeared on mail from various points in the country within a day or so of the first day of sale. Of a pleasing shade of violet quite different from that of other recent issues, the stamp strikes a note of attractive simplicity of design. Foreign collectors will no doubt be puzzled by the inscription "Kamehameha I." The feather-cloaked monarch thus becomes the second king to be featured on U. S. stamps. The October 18th plane from the Islands was cancelled due to storms, so those collectors expecting theirs by the clipper will have received them about a week late.

J. G. Mohler of Greenville, Ohio, sent out a number of the Smoky Mountain panes for use as return postage. One of his correspondents, evidently not a stamp collector, wrote back: "You don't happen to have a hound pup you could send up to lick the panel stamps, do you?" It sounds like a very handy accessory for first day cover mailers. Kennel owners take note.

Protection against the possible loss of thousands of first day covers bearing the Hawaii special stamp was realized by collectors through the efforts of the United States Post Office Department this week, when the trans-Pacific Clipper plane which was scheduled to depart from Honolulu last Monday, October 18, was ordered to postpone its flight to San Francisco until October 23.

Although collectors will be forced to wait an extra week before receiving their covers by this means, nevertheless, all will agree that waiting for such a length of time is better than waiting in vain.

Such acts by the Post Office Department should be commended, as it points out the fact it is in hearty accord with the hobby.

Actions such as these also reflect favorably in what the Post Office Department is trying to do in other lines of work of direct interest to philately.

Criticism against the designs of U. S. postage stamps, together with the ink, the color of ink, paper and divers other fault-finding items too numerous to mention is certainly unjust. Far be it for the Post Office Department or the Bureau of Engraving to place on the market poor samples of its work. Efforts to work in line with collectors to give them the best service possible is also reflected by the arrangement to have experienced members of the Post Office Department to be on hand at first day sale points to service and supervise the servicing of covers.

A good example of what artists can do in the designing of postage stamps for U. S. usage can be adjudged in the contest sponsored by the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department. Eleven hundred artists submitted designs, and the winning entry was practically a replica of the Edward VIII adhesives of Great Britain with George Washington's likeness in place of the abdicated monarch.

Compare the winning contest design with the current regular 1-cent postage stamp now in use. Which would you honestly select to carry your mail?

Let us forget about prize contests for U. S. postage stamps, and leave the selection of designs, colors, printing and all other forms in the production of United States Postage Stamps in the hands of capable experts in the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving.

Prize contests are circulation builders for newspapers and advertising mediums for cigarettes and should have no place in the administration of the United States Government, postally or otherwise.

Stamp Investments

By DON HOUSEWORTH

Although there is much preaching that the investment value of stamps should be of secondary consideration to the collector and that his primary interest in the hobby should be to provide himself with a constructive form of recreation, most of us find it difficult to keep our minds off the relative scarcity of the stamps we own. In fact, it is almost impossible to work with the standard catalogue and not be as much impressed by the value of stamps as any other feature.

In specialization the collector naturally becomes quite well acquainted with values because he is working with a comparatively small number of stamps but over a period of years he will hardly bother to keep old quotations in his memory even though such comparison of price often becomes intensely interesting.

Through the use of a simple table it is possible to group these annual catalogue valuations near the stamp. For instance, I have a collection of some 200 major varieties. These are mounted on but one side of a page and only a few on each page. The facing page is devoted to write-up and the valuation tables.

Standard Catalogue Values

1932
1933
1934

Such tables may be extended as far into the future as there is room on the page and if quotations are inserted each year is always a comprehensive financial history of the stamp. Not all stamps advance in price as the years roll by but it is just as fascinating to watch a stamp slide to bottom after getting a false start in the catalogue. Too, this indication of public demand is often a clue to a good story behind the issue which will make the specialized collection more nearly approach a complete history of the stamps.

Australia's 150th Anniversary Philatelic Exhibition

The year 1938 being the Centenary of the issue of the New South Wales stamped envelope the Exhibition will commemorate that Centenary as well as the Sesqui-Centenary of the founding of the first white settlement of Australia. Under the patronage of Australia's 150th Anniversary Celebrations Council it will be held in Sydney in April, 1938.

The prospectus to hand includes in the competitive classes a Division specially for "United States". We hope therefore that a wide response will come from Collectors throughout the States. Information may be had from Mr. Sol Whitman, 1462 Taylor Avenue, New York City, who is appointed as representative for America.

Naval Cancels — Cachets

By MARSHALL B. HALL.
ANCS 10

1767 Bedford Road, Columbus, Ohio

Due to inability to receive his drawing in time for the Navy Day cachet he had announced, Norman K. Mary, 305 Walter st., Pittsburgh, Pa., is having a cachet prepared for a later event and all covers you sent him will be used on this.

A cachet for the first day in commission of the Snapper, a new submarine, will be sponsored by R. V. Walton and Alex Hesse, Jr., as an ANCS Argonauts event. Send covers at once to Hesse, 449 Troutman st., Brooklyn, N. Y. Deadline Nov. 6. Include forwarding.

The Roland Hopkins covers for which collectors sent in a dime some time ago, are ready for distribution. I have them for this purpose and if all who sent Hopkins a dime will now send me a No. 10 envelope, your covers will come back by return mail. I might add that this cover is certainly a pip. My address at head of this column.

Russell Court, 7262 Greenway Drive, St. Louis, Mo., will sponsor a Christmas cachet from 5 ships, a cachet for Thanksgiving and one for New Years. He requests all covers come early, with forwarding postage, and that only smooth surface standard envelopes be sent.

A cachet for first day in commission of the Boise, a Thanksgiving cachet with a double cancel, will be sponsored by T. G. Nicholson, Box 32, Portsmouth, Va., if you rush your covers and forwarding postage in early. The double cancel will be especially nice and you should put two stamps at different places on this particular cover if you want the thing done up properly.

Weston Satterly will sponsor a cachet commemorating creation of the U. S. Navy, to be cancelled on a naval vessel. Limit of two covers. Include forwarding and send covers to Satterly at 1831 50th st., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Frederick Horton, Box 390, Port Chester, N. Y., will sponsor cachets for birthdays of the Mississippi, Lexington, Barket, Barry, J. D. Ford, King, Wasmuth, Sirius, Relief, Augusta, Cincinnati, and for shakedown of Fanning. Send forwarding postage with your covers.

First Saginaw Stamp Show

Saginaw, Mich., is having its first exhibition, convention and bourse on Saturday afternoon and evening, November 13th, in Bradley Hall, First Congregational Church on Jefferson Ave. The Saginaw Stamp Society extends a cordial invitation to all collectors and promises several important collections among the exhibits, including a collection of full imperforate sheets of U. S. An auction will be held in the evening and although no banquet, light lunches will be served in the building. Bourse tables are $1.00 each and reservations should be sent to James O. Hoover, 1632 N. Michigan Ave., Saginaw, Mich.

Another German "Reissue"

We learn that the Brown Ribbon stamps of 1936 have been re-issued but overprinted "1937." The quantity so treated was only 300,000. Naturally they are likely to be quite scarce.

Here and There

Collectors of Coronations and Jubilees would be interested in the huge lot of those issues placed by a speculator with G. P. D. Vesey for sale at their Nov. 9, 10, 11 and 12 auction. Coronations are offered in quantities as large as 50 sets on covers of all colonies and unused material in proportion.

The British Broadcasting Corp. is planning an Empire broadcast on stamp collecting.

Melbourne, Australia, has recently had radio broadcasts for the first time on stamp collecting. Strangely, they were received with some criticism locally there as the programs were "recordings" made in America and one critic writes "the strong American accent is not an asset," and quite unsuited to Australians.

As a result of the eruption and earthquake at Rabaul, British New Guinea, two emergency air flights were made and in one instance at least, covers were sent without stamps due to shortage of stamps.

A REQUIEM

With this message, I end my career as air-mail editor for Linn's. It is purely a volunteer act on my part because I feel that I have not had the support of the air mail cover collectors. When everything has been summed up, I find that I have enjoyed writing for Mr. Linn. You must realize that an editor of this type of column must have support but the readers have failed me and so I cover my typewriter. No hard feelings should result as I have none. However, if the readers desire help or want the column to be continued, write to me directly and send a copy to Mr. Linn. As it is, I must bid you adieu.

C. A. Hunter.

The above letter from Mr. Hunter speaks for itself. Collectors having information on coming air events should in the future send these items direct to the Editor of Linn's and those warranting it will be published in with general news notes. Mr. Hunter has ably handled the airmail news and we regret his inability to carry on the column further. Remember to get your items to us in plenty of time for publication.

One reader submits his curse on those stamp collectors who "do him wrong":—"May all his stamps FADE!" It certainly covers a collection in a drastic manner.

Sandy Cabeen, in the Chicago Tribune: "The washed-out looking Virginia Dare stamp has been somewhat appropriately dubbed, The Pale-face stamp."

Editor's Comment

WHAT OUR ENGLISH COUSINS ARE DOING The other night in Washington Miss Ethel Harper, secretary to Robson Lowe, London philatelic editor and stamp dealer, revealed to the Collectors Club the trends in the British market. Her remarks on demand for certain grades of United States are most interesting.

"For the stamps of the United States," Miss Harper was quoted in The Washington Post, "I think we have a better market for the second and third quality stamps; definitely you will always get the record prices for the first quality market; but the slightly off-center and small margin copies sell comparatively well in our own market. We also find that we can buy quite a number of nineteenth century issues from the United States and sell them at a profit. Also covers that are not up to the standard that many American collectors require. Early covers are in demand but I do not think that blocks are so readily absorbed in London as they are in North America."

Miss Harper said that British West Indies stamps are everlastingly popular, particularly the stamps of Great Britain used in the British possessions and British consular offices in foreign countries. South American stamps are not popular and Australian material is in slight demand. Asiatic issues are not very strong but early issues of China and Japan, North Borneo, Sarawak, Labuan and Straits Settlements are in demand. Indian stamps are very low with the exception of the 1854 issues. Stamps of the Near East are popular.

"Among the Europeans," she continued, "there is a keen demand for fine early issues, particularly on covers or scarce blocks and pieces; other than that, Belgium and France are probably the most popular and in their own countries the early issues of Germany and Italy, but the financial restrictions evolved by their governments prevent business and therefore the stamp market in these countries lacks support.

"However, fashions change considerably and definitely in the course of the next fifteen years it will be extremely difficult to acquire further supplies of perforated line-engraved stamps and, with the coming centenary of the Penny Black in 1940, one must anticipate quite a rise as these stamps become 100 years old. The middle and later queens are good sellers and even the market for Edward VII stamps has bucked up quite a bit. The King George V stamps are selling very well but this is only a temporary boom which will fall off in the next decade when we will see these stamps much less appreciated."

MAPS MAKE IDEAL DECORATION

It has not been the writer's experience to look through many collections in which the owner has employed maps to any extent as illustrations. And this seems like overlooking a decorative feature that is collectable in itself. Any collection of limited size, such as one comprising the commemorative issues of the United States or a specialized foreign album, might well become a prize winner through the inclusion of attractive maps even though the stamps in themselves might be available by the millions.

This thought is brought to mind by the appearance of the Territory series. This series seems to have brought out the uncomplimentary fact that even stamp collectors have had but a hazy idea of the location of these possessions and suitable maps, showing the territories in relation to the parent country, ought to do a lot toward our education in geography.

Maps of countless types are not difficult to obtain. Every second hand book store has back shelves crowded with old school books, almost every attic has a few long out-of-date historical volumes gathering dust. In many particulars these older maps are more appealing than the modern ones. Another point in favor of the map illustration is the fact they are not difficult to draw if a printed specimen is not available.

Post Marking

That is my pet name for the activity which is my hobby—the collecting of post marks. I am not concerned, as some are, with how many town names can be accumulated. I find too many branches of postmarking that are more interesting.

Have you seen the latest issue from Dallas? It is a beauty. To advertise the exposition, the new postmark shows a sketch of the Western hemisphere, across the face of which is printed "Texas & Pan American Exposition, Dallas, June 1937 Oct." All this rests neatly within the box and is followed by straight lines. Yes, I would say it is another International T. The first one I found was postmarked Dallas, May 6. I am waiting anxiously for others showing station names. I understand there will be one with "Terminal Station" and on one the exposition grounds. But Dame Rumor is so misleading. Does anyone know?

Before this is in print we will have our souvenir cover from the Golden Gate bridge. I am wondering if the special postmark promised will be in the form of a slogan and, also, how long it will be in use.

And while we are waiting for some of our friends to tell us what else is new, let us consider the ordinary wave line postmarks. Examine some covers from your current mail. You may have a type that I have not seen. I have before me five distinct types of wave line cancels, but representing only two machine manufacturers, I believe. Both factories have six- and seven-line cancels. You can distinguish the different spacing between the lines, but a more certain way is by the location of the state name. The fifth is an old type wave line still in use. It has a space for the machine number in the lines rather than in the town mark.

If you have any questions send them to me. I will try to answer. If you know of any post office using what you think may be an unusual type or an old type of postmark, tell me—or send one.—Eph Jay, 265 Diamond street, Fresno, Calif.

$15.00 stamp

One of the highest face value postage stamps ever issued on this continent is the Brazilian $15.00 stamp commemorating the 1930 Revolution. High face value stamps are always hard to get as shown by the current U. S. $5.00 stamp which is difficult to obtain in good condition at less than 80c a copy. When you consider that the Brazil $15.00 stamp has a face value 3 times higher and is used in a country that doesn't mail as many letters in a year as the U. S. does in a month you can get a fairly good idea of its scarcity.

Our agent was able to get the entire letter file of Brazil's largest banks for the past 5 years. In it was the only large amount of the $15.00 stamps ever to come on the market. This fortunate purchase enables us to offer this $15.00 face value postage stamp, which catalogs $1.25 used, for only 10c to approval applicants. Rush your order. Only 1 stamp to each customer.

The Polish National Alliance has suggested the issuance of stamps portraying Pulaski and Kosciuszko in connection with the Constitution Celebration. The portraits of these two Polish-American heroes are requested on stamps almost every year, although each has been honored once in that manner.

The Central Federation of Stamp Clubs and 23 of its member clubs will stage a three day exhibition at the Medinah Club, Michigan Ave., Chicago, during National Stamp week. The dates are Nov. 18, 19 and 20.

A writer in an English paper claimed that current U. S. stamps are printed with "safety" inks which will change color when soaked in water, and thereby foil those who would remove cancellations. Tests have revealed not the slightest change in color after a long soaking.

Linprint Pictorial Envelopes for First Day Covers

LINPRINT Pictorial Cacheted Envelopes for First Day Covers and all other Special Events have long been recognized as the best line of envelopes for such use.

The designs are always new and original, especially prepared for the different events. Other publishers in the past have stolen our designs yet have produced from them inferior envelopes because we also use only the best quality colored inks and print the covers with care.

The envelopes used are a white bond paper envelope of the standard regulation size as preferred by all experienced collectors, $6\frac{1}{2} \times 3\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Collectors who unknowingly use odd and misshapen envelopes should know that the future market for such covers is not good.

Illustrated above are some of the popular designs that we have issued in the past. The sale of LINPRINT Pictorial Envelopes is greater than that of any other line.

In event there is a special stamp or souvenir sheet issued which will not fit on the standard size envelope, then we will prepare a special envelope, at a special price. On all standard size envelopes our prices are always the same.

For many events we issue two or more different envelopes. Prices are for envelopes of any single design or may be assorted at prices quoted.

Five or more envelopes at 2c each. Orders for less than five will not be accepted

Christmas Seals

A complete exhibit of Christmas seal stamps from every country that sells for tuberculosis work will be made by the Chicago Exposition and Hobby Fair, Stevens Hotel, November 8 to 13. Included in the exhibit will be American Christmas seals from 1907 to the present time.

Stamp clubs of the Chicago area are participating in the exposition. Among them are: Progressive Philatelic Society; Chicago Cover Club; Commonwealth Edison Philatelic Society; and Beverly Hills Philatelic Society. Notable entries are 40 frames of German stamps, the largest showing of that country's stamps ever assembled, and an exhibit of "storybook" stamps, a topical group telling the story behind the stamp.

This annual exposition is the largest of its kind in the world. Last year it drew over 200 exhibitors from 16 states, and attendance from 30 states.

New Malta Pictorials

A set of 15 pictorials will be issued shortly. The values will range from $\frac{1}{4}$ d. to 10s. The designs will represent Malta's history, ethnology and art, thus serving not only for postal purposes, but also to commend the beauties and attractions of the Island to tourists.

Stocks Tumble—Stamps Firm

The recent spectacular somersaulting done by the big gambling market in New York should be food for thought for the wise collector. While we have never preached buying stamps for an investment, there is little question in our own mind that stamps as an investment hold far more safe opportunity than does the stock market.

However, in stamps as in stocks, profits should not be hoped for over night. The man who is content to invest in stamps with the idea of a long pull for a satisfactory profit can usually feel safe provided that in the first place he has sufficient knowledge to buy the right stamps and at the same time, more than anything else has a sufficient knowledge to get the stamps in the right condition and then to preserve them in that form.

I can safely say that I have seen many large lots of mint U. S. that were bought for investment by people ignorant of stamp condition that were almost a total loss as far as any use for them other than postage use was concerned. If you must invest in stamps, do so only after you have learned what condition means and how to preserve your stamps for the future market.

We said above "a long pull". Investments should be made only with that in view. If its just a case of gambling with your money then of course get into the market but for our part we would rather try a good poker game.

Being Crowded

For the past three weeks we have been forced to run a 20 page rather than a 16 page paper which is our standard form. It is because of our large circulation with the favorable low advertising rate that dealers have found our paper a profitable field for advertising. Cost of production with our increased circulation has obliged us to make new advertising rates. We believe this will result in squeezing out some of the copy which should make business better for those that stay. Our next objective will be a 25,000 weekly circulation and that will mean even higher rates with better results to the advertiser.

Four Full Pages

This week we have four full page advertisements. There is the front page from Alex Cohen in the Canal Zone with his usual offering of Latin Americans; a full page of U. S. Offers by Dick Guthke, one of the up and coming dealers in Columbus. Mr. Guthke has been selling recently from a general collection of about 35,000 varieties; a full page of Germany from the Central Stamp Company. These people had a large Austrian Advt. last week and a big French offer the week before and report good business from the French advt. Results from the Austrian advt. have not been reported as yet. Also a full page on Coronations, Jubilee and late British items from Robert Herdelin. Certainly a big lot of offers that our readers will enjoy looking over.

Wholesale U. S.

Held Brothers have just issued a new Wholesale U. S. list which reflects price changes in line with the new catalogue. The list is sold at 10c and this is refunded on first order. Held Brothers are undoubtedly the leading wholesale dealers in U. S. stamps and they also are ready to buy quantity material in any volume.

Exhibition Posters

Numerous requests from stamp clubs have come for samples of our special Exhibition Posters. The idea seems to meet with the approval of the wide awake clubs. If you have not noted the offering of these, look up the announcement on the second page of our October 16 issue.

Precancel Stamp News

K. M. GIERHART, BALTIMORE, OHIO

Information on new issues and notes of interest to Precancel collectors should be addressed as above.

HANDBOOK

Adolph Gunesch's seventh edition of his famous handbook has made its appearance. Each succeeding issue is larger and better than its predecessor. Continuing the summary of states but adding more information about bureaus, especially about the rarities. I note an article dealing with the building of a denomination collection I know the beginner will appreciate. Other new articles deal with Postage Dues and Mimeographed and Multigraphed precancels. In other words all of the fine features of previous editions have been retained and the above mentioned and many other interesting articles have been added in this new edition. Anyone interested in precancels at all should not fail to obtain one of these handbooks. I do not know just how Mr. Gunesch intends to market this edition but I presume as before, at a nominal price or in combination with his merchandise. Write him at 159 North State St., Chicago for complete details.

AURORA III

Have been picking up recently a few items in type 5 from Aurora. This type preceded the U-10, type 7, and the U-122 used there, but here it pops up again. Noted it on the 2c, 12c and 15c, compound perfs. At first I thought it was another new electro but after comparing the two I decided they must have just polished up the old plate again and used her some more. If this is the same old plate, then it is one of the real veterans being in use at least for twenty years. Illinois collectors please note and report on your information about this plate please.

NOTES

The Precancel Star came in this week bearing a 1½c FF. Harding precancelled Ogema, Minn. Peeking inside the Star we note an article wondering why Ivoryton, Conn., a town of 606 inhabitants should need a buro print. On the back page is an item about the town of Ogema. According to the item it is a town of 253 souls in an Indian reservation. So we wonder what a town of this size needs precancels for. How come Iver? The type of the above mentioned precancel was U-44 and is from a three subject handstamp. The Western Echo in this week also, had a 1c comp. Terminal Island, Calif. on its face side. The Echo lists one of the first Virginia Dare precancels we have noted. Its from Los Angeles in type 6. A note from Al Jones of Wabash, Ind., states that he finds the South Bend B79 item almost as hard to get as Memphis 79.

A PROMISE

In this and succeeding issues you will no doubt note an ad of mine offering precancels for sale. It is my sincere hope that this will not deter any of my correspondents from writing to me for fear that I will try to sell them something. I want all my friends and readers to write me without fear of having an approval selection stuck under their nose, for a procedure like that is not my idea of good business. You will not be bothered with approvals or price lists unless you specifically ask for them. So its my PROMISE not to mix my business in this column, it's still your and my column. Feel free to write me like you would your old aunt Emma.

Broadway Chatter

By Bi Stander

A correspondent friend in Cuba advises us of a release on Oct. 13th, 14th and 15th of a series of stamps for the benefit of the "Association of American Writers and Artists." After the 15th the remaining stamps will not be available for official postal service. It is stated that the set will comprise twenty-three stamps including airmails. An announcement of the Pan American Union states that the funds from the sale will be turned over to an association that will employ the funds in the furtherance of its international cultural endeavors.

One of the prettiest stamps of recent months is the 46 centavo commemorative issued by Honduras in honor of the sesquicentennial of the U. S. Constitution. The clearness of the design, we understand, is obtained by a new process in the manufacture of stamps, namely the use of electricity in the hardening of the plates. In addition, colors are actually interwoven into the pattern of the stamp.

We noted a very interesting postage meter on an envelope of the Commercial Travelers of Utica, New York, that had as a slogan "Danger—Do not pass on curve or top of hill."

The New York Sun in a Washington dispatch from the Associated Press gives a list of names of post offices taken from the Postal Guide as for example: Water Proof, Louisiana; Rough and Ready, California; Hot Spot, Kentucky; Ball Ground, Georgia; O. K., Kentucky; Mumie and Biscuit, Kentucky; Old Joe, Arkansas.

We went through the new post office just opened on Church Street, New York, and found it the latest and most up to date one we have yet seen. It is a far cry from the old and antiquated one formerly known as the City Hall post office and its indirect lighting is all that can be desired. The only objection we heard is that one must climb up eleven steps to get into the post office proper instead of those modern ramps that railroad stations have. After the building was almost completed it was decided to add numerous stories and these are being put in place while business is going on down below.

Do you know that on the 5c U. S. Beacon stamp that some stamps have the door open in the beacon tower? This occurs very infrequently and one collector has gone through 5,000 of them and found one copy.

Collects Number Ones

J. Merritt Brundige, Albany dealer, recently branched out—establishing a branch office at Cambridge, N. Y., for mail sales only. At a recent Lion's Club dinner there he assisted a local collector in putting over a philatelic program so well that a return engagement was urged. Mr. Brundige recently purchased the collection of Bank Note issues of U. S. formed by the well known expert in those issues, Warner Bates. Another collection purchased was the foreign, consisting of superb copies only and to complete which Mr. Brundige is looking for superb Number Ones of a number of countries.

CORONATIONS

Crown Colonies, 45 sets, 135 stamps, $6.25

Dominions, 14 countries, 56 stamps, $7.25

The Coronations are in great demand, and my prices are very low. Crown Colonies are being sold retail in individual sets for about $12.50. There will be a shortage of Crown Colonies before long, and the $6.25 price is good for a limited time. The Dominions are today a $12.00 to $15.00 value for $7.25. Both sets available on DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN for only $1.00 per week against $1.00 deposit. Add $.50 charges to each group, but to save you postage, money order expense, trouble, time, etc., the weekly payments can be grouped and paid once a month. The Crown Colonies would be $6.75 on this plan, and the Dominions $7.75. By buying on "time" instead of the sets individually you save about $10.00 on both groups.

NEW GUINEA

The rare New Guinea Coronation, rumored selling for one pound (about $5.00) 79c abroad, is available at A SET

NOTE—For a limited time at this price, no more than a set of sheets to a customer.

The above listing prices Coronations and Jubilees in single sets. In some instances I cannot supply Jubilee sets individually, and they are becoming very scarce. Some of the outstanding values in the Coronations are South West Africa pairs at $1.74; Papua at $2.29; and Nauru at $4.44. The New Guinea as mentioned above is the BUY at $7.90 a set or miniature sheets of 30 figure at $23.70. Should you purchase $10.00 or more worth of stamps you may pay in ninety days, adding only $.50 for each $10.00. With prices due to advance 20% to 30% it will pay you to buy at my low prices now, as my prices have been reduced 20% to 35%.
